BUILDING BLOCKS

Wrapped in Absorbency

Amenities can make or break a spa. For instance, when asked about their hydrotherapy, shower or other wet service experience, clients almost inevitably remember the spa's towels. Were they luxurious? The truth is, spa clients crave towels that are a little more lavish than those stacked in their bathrooms at home. MysticMaid says that its Thirst Towels provide the feeling of the finest plush cotton with the absorbency of microfibers, thanks to the company's Cotton-With-a-Twist technology. Products include hand, bath and yoga towels; body and face exfoliating mitts; and hair turbans. For more information call 877/468-0888 or visit thirsttowels.com.

Hearts on Their Sleeves

As spa owners and employees seek the most effective new ways to give back to their local and global communities, companies with a conscience are supplying creative ways to partner with them. One such company is KarmaThreads, a positive messaging apparel company that fuses vintage flair with contemporary designs—all while helping teens in need. KarmaThreads was founded in November 2006 by Rhonda Lee in partnership with her 16-year-old daughter Sarah Veilleux, who helps conceptualize and design the T-shirts. The teen-inspired clothing sports positive messages such as "Dream," "Hope," "Love Happens" and "Positive Soul Model." A portion of the proceeds from the sale of each T-shirt goes toward helping teens at the New Outlook Teen Center (newoutlookteencenter.org) in Exeter, New Hampshire, and Stand Up for Kids (standupforkids.org) in San Diego.
